Who am I ?

I am himanshu dixit a teenage boy of 19 years old I believe I am a person who dreams not such big and not has such big ambitions in life. my father is always a inspiraration for me. I am a very spiritual person. I am a strong believer in God and the existence of supernatural power in our universe. I hail from an orthodox brahmin family and these religious and spiritual values have been inculcated in my nature right from my childhood. These values have always helped me grow as a better person. The belief that there is a God watching whatever we do from up above the sky makes me be careful before committing mistakes knowingly. The fear of God has made me a righteous person from the beginning.

I like to know people and make friends. This nature of mine has helped me in my studies as well as free time. In case I find a subject to be difficult, I and my friends do group study and have fun while doing so. When I am alone I watched movies and play games if exams are close i prefer to study alone if there is a something learning like that.

I am very lasiest person. I like to visit new places I ll make new plans to go out but because of my lazy nature I ll cancel it after some time. I am not lazy in study,I do my work on time . I didn't bother the society I hate this question what the other thought outside. But where I am currently living there society is to good . they help each and everyone we all celebrate together festivals.

I am a kind person by heart and I intentionally never try to hurt people.and if I feel someone is making fool of me I try to make distance from him/her. I am an empathetic person with no ego and attitude problems. I can gel well with people and my friends like me. But, like every human being, I too have some bad qualities. I usually get angry at my mother whenever she makes vegetable other than potato because I don't like any vegetable and sometimes waste the food that she has cooked for me. I bite my nails which is an unhealthy habit. I am a person who works hard and is trying to improve myself.
